Financial planning even simpler thanks to new software solution

Corporate Planning presents a new Integrated Financial Planning model

Hanover/Hamburg, 02.03.2010

At CeBIT 2010 in Hanover from 2nd to 6th March 2010, the CP Corporate Planning AG software house is unveiling the new "Integrated Financial Planning" model. As a component of Corporate Planner, the system for planning, analysis and reporting, this new format in which the P&L, cash flow statement and balance sheet items are displayed makes financial planning much simpler for the medium-sized enterprise.

Integrated Financial Planning made easy

Despite the complex relationships in Integrated Financial Planning, the calculation process is quite straightforward for the user. The familiar P&L, financial plan and budgeted balance sheet items are listed in a clear and attractively designed layout. Each item can be analysed, processed and planned systematically, without losing sight of the general picture. The navigation through the program has also been modified accordingly and makes the application easier to use. In any plan, actual or forecast stream, the data can be displayed in terms of months, quarters or years.

An Integrated Component within a System

Corporate Planner is an integrated system which provides a wide range of planning and distribution methods for drawing up a budget, a large selection of analyses (from target-actual to trends) and a great many convenient functions for professional reporting.

To facilitate quick, effective and forward-looking decisions in which the aspects of cost-efficiency, profitability and liquidity are interlinked, the Integrated Financial Planning model was developed as a component of Corporate Planner. The individual elements which form the basis of financial planning, analysis and reporting are dynamically linked together, creating a self-contained, consistent system. The standard model which is integrated in CORPORATE PLANNER provides maximum flexibility and can be customised to individual requirements.
